Jet Aviation is delighted to announce that one of its VIP cabin interiors is on display at JetExpo held in Moscow from September 8-10, 2016. The ACJ319 brought to the static display by Airbus Corporate Jets is managed by Austrian operator MJET. It showcases a custom VIP interior that was designed and completed by the Jet Aviation completions center in Basel.

Intended for both private and commercial operation, the ACJ319 brought to JetExpo 2016 by Airbus was built to accommodate up to 23 passengers and six crew. The business jet was designed and completed by the Jet Aviation completions center in Basel, and is certified for 19 passengers under MJet's Austrian AOC.

The VIP cabin interior includes spacious double “wet” and “dry” galley areas; crew, staff, lounge and dining areas; a private bedroom with en-suite bathroom and shower; and a guest lavatory. It is beautifully fit and finished with high-gloss American black cherry and Santos rosewood hardwoods and veneers that are offset by select finely stitched upholstery and leathers. The bathroom is tailored for VVIP use and features real glass mirror and an over-mounted basin of moulded corian, adding one of many contemporary elements within the aircraft.

“We have significant experience in outfitting VIP aircraft, backed by extensive in-house capabilities to consistently ensure the highest quality within optimized timeframes,” says Neil Boyle, vice president and general manager of the company's Basel completions center. “The Airbus ACJ319 interior displayed at JetExpo truly demonstrates our superb craftsmanship in combining innovative
