TECHNOHEAVEN ANNOUNCES STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP WITH EMIRATES

News / Airlines

Technoheaven announced a strategic partnership with Emirates airline. The new agreement will enable Emirates' NDC (new distribution capability) content integrated into the Technoheaven platform, with NDC content being made available to its client community of travel agents, buyers and travel suppliers.

Technoheaven recently achieved NDC Level 4 certification by the International Air Transport Association (IATA). Its suite of connection options has been built on new technology and is designed to address the limitations of current legacy distribution systems. Technoheaven will provide access to Emirates content through IATA NDC APIs. Travel businesses will have instant connectivity with Emirates for fast and direct access to customer-centric rich content, enabling a more bespoke, innovative and transparent customer experience. Travellers can book tickets, select seats, purchase ancillaries and much more. Travel brands will also be able to support changes in travellers' bookings and any flight disruptions.

Businesses that join Technoheaven will be able to access availability, compare prices and make real-time bookings.

Vinod Kelwani, CEO of Technoheaven, said: "Technoheaven has achieved NDC Level 4 certification which is currently the highest level of IATA's NDC certification programme. It means that we can provide full offer and order management for our partners and we are delighted to welcome Emirates into our partnership programme. They are a progressive airline that recognises the benefits of joining our expanding global network."
