CUNNINGHAM AVIATION JOINS PARAGON NETWORK, EXPANDING ITS REACH AND SERVICES

News / Business aviation

Paragon Aviation Group announced that Cunningham Aviation, a premier aviation service provider located at Falcon Field in Mesa, Arizona, has joined the Paragon Network. Founded in 2020 by aviation enthusiast and private pilot George Cunningham, Cunningham Aviation has rapidly gained recognition for its exceptional services and dedication to aviation excellence.

Cunningham Aviation operates from a historically significant site at Falcon Field, utilizing a 30,000 square-foot hangar that has been meticulously restored by George and Nicolle Cunningham. This facility, which originally served as a hub for Hughes Helicopters during the 1970s and 1980s, now offers various services including aircraft fueling and storage.

In addition to aviation services, the newly renovated hangar serves as the office headquarters for the Cunningham family's auction and appraisal businesses. Over the past three decades, George has conducted numerous auctions for a variety of aircraft, including Cessna 172s and the last two airworthy Mach 2 Vought F-8 Crusaders.

George Cunningham, President of Cunningham Aviation commented: “I’ve always had a love for flying and aviation. The opportunity to restore this hangar and serve the veteran community has been incredibly rewarding, and joining the Paragon Network is an exciting next step for us.”

Crystal Kubeczka, President of Paragon Aviation Group, stated: “We are very pleased to welcome Cunningham Aviation to the Paragon Network,” said Crystal Kubeczka, President of Paragon Aviation Group. “Their remarkable growth, deep-rooted passion for aviation, and commitment to preserving history while delivering top-tier service make them an exceptional addition. We look forward to supporting their continued success and are excited about the value they bring to our growing network of distinguished FBOs.”

Paragon Aviation Group is proud to welcome Cunningham Aviation into its network of elite FBOs. This partnership reinforces Paragon’s commitment to excellence and further strengthens its reputation as a leader in the aviation services industry, offering unparalleled service and expertise to FBOs and aviation professionals worldwide.

With the addition of Cunningham Aviation, Paragon continues to demonstrate its dedication to offering unmatched services, expertise, and customer satisfaction to FBOs, aviation professionals, and enthusiasts worldwide.
