TAG AVIATION COUNTS DOWN TO THE ARRIVAL OF FALCON 6X

News / Business aviation

TAG Aviation is excited for the arrival of their brand-new Falcon 6X which is currently in Dassault Aviation's completion facility in Little Rock. This will be the first UK-registered Falcon 6X and will be available for charter. This aircraft type will fit perfectly into an already varied and established charter fleet at TAG.

The onboarding team at TAG Aviation for this brand-new aircraft have been monitoring the process very carefully and have been thrilled to oversee the development of the project throughout the manufacturing process on behalf of an existing TAG client. As delivery gets closer, each week provides a positive development, only last week the Type Certificate Data Sheet was approved by the UK CAA.

The aircraft is expected to arrive into the UK in June in readiness for a busy charter season. With a base in Luton, the aircraft will be perfectly positioned for both European and global charter trips.

Lauren Pittas, Manager Client Relations, TAG Aviation Europe commented: "We are very proud to be taking delivery of this brand-new Falcon 6X and we're excited to welcome it into the TAG Fleet. It will make a superb addition to our existing charter fleet in terms of comfort, safety and technology and the 5,500nm range means it can connect our charter passengers with most
