Piper Aircraft Inc. will display nearly its entire aircraft product line during EAA AirVenture 2018, scheduled July 23 - July 29.

"Year after year aviation enthusiasts and serious general aviation buyers from around the world come together at EAA AirVenture," said Simon Caldecott, Piper President and CEO. "This unique aviation event on the shores of Lake Winnebago is a prime meeting place for the aviation community and an ideal venue to showcase Piper products and engage with our customers."

Piper will be hosting a press conference on the first day of the Experimental Aircraft Association's AirVenture to update the aviation media on recent activities at Piper Aircraft, including an overview of Piper's second quarter performance.

On display at the Piper static exhibit in the Main Aircraft Display area 140-145, 156-161 will be the class leading, single-engine turbo prop M600, as well as the competitively priced single engine turbo prop M500 and the pressurized single-engine piston-powered M350, which comprise the entire Piper M-Class.

Also on display from the highly favored Trainer-Class will be the Piper Archer as well as the twin-engine Seminole, both aircraft being popular with flight schools around the world.

Additionally, Piper Aircraft will be hosting Red Bull Air Race pilot and M600 owner, Kirby Chambliss on Wednesday and Friday from 1:15 - 1:45 for an autograph signing.
