ALLEGIANT SELECTS FLIGHTSCAPE AS NEXT-GENERATION AIRLINE OPERATIONS PLATFORM TO SUPPORT GROWTH

News / Airlines, Maintenance / Trainings

CAE has signed a long-term contract with Allegiant which will allow the airline to transform its operational intelligence and performance by using Flightscape - Powered by CAE. Flightscape is a data-driven platform that enables airlines to effectively manage operations, adapt seamlessly to challenges and mitigate disruptions, optimizing efficiency and costs, even in the most complex and time-sensitive situations. Allegiant has selected the Crew Management and Operations Management modules, and implementation of these two next-generation solutions has already begun.

Tyler Hollingsworth, Allegiant COO commented: “We are excited to partner with CAE and know Flightscape will be a valuable platform to optimize our operational efficiency. Integrating this new technology equips our teams with richer data and insights that help minimize travel disruptions for our customers. Flightscape will enhance our customer experience as we continue to provide safe and reliable air service.”

Pascal Grenier, Division President, Flightscape stated: “We are thrilled about this partnership with Allegiant and extremely proud to be supporting their growth with Flightscape’s next-generation solutions. Over the past three years, CAE has invested in its airline operations platform: growing the offering, developing innovative products, enhancing customer service, forging new partnerships, and improving processes and technology. We are very excited to offer airlines around the world, like Allegiant, a fully integrated system with the very latest technology to help improve profitability and operate more efficiently, allowing them to stay ahead of the curve.”
